Chief Telephone Operator Retires

Miss Emma Kidd, agent chief operator with the Blairmore telephone exchange office for over 29 years has been retired on pension, Sept. 27, after achieving an enviable record with the company.

Miss Kidd was born in Eggleston, England, and came to Alberta several years later. She lived at Frank, Alberta, since 1908, and moved to Blairmore in 1940.

She started working for Alberta Government Telephones May 16, 1919, at the Blairmore exchange, where she has been a valued employee ever since.

Miss Kidd will make her home in Blairmore with her sister, Mrs. Harry Moore. She claims she has enjoyed her work at the telephone exchange very much.

Miss Shirley Rae has been appointed chief operator at the exchange to take Miss Kidd's place. Shirley has lived in Blairmore all her life.

To mark her retirement a farewell party was held at the telephone office at the close of the business day on Sept. 27, in honor of Miss Kidd.

The girls on the exchange staff presented Miss Kidd with a small oxys radio as a remembrance of them all. They have all enjoyed working with her very much.

Other guests present at the party from the system's southern section of the AGT were: Mr. Dickey, plant superintendent, and Mrs. Dickey; Mr. A. C. Head, district traffic superintendent, of Lethbridge; Mr. T. C. Bradshaw, district commercial superintendent, and from Blairmore Mr. and Mrs. Bowman and Mr. and Mrs. Robertson were present.

A dainty lunch was served, after which Miss Kidd thanked the staff and friends present for being so nice to her.

Crowded Auditorium Greets Young Singer

The Calgary Women's Musical Club opened its season in Central United church on Wednesday evening with a crowded auditorium to greet the young Canadian mezzo-soprano Natalie Minunzie of Blairmore.

Opening her program with a group of Mozart songs, Miss Minunzie immediately gave an impression of musicianship and sincerity. She sang with assurance and good restraint.

The second group, included some fine old English songs of the eighteenth century which offered a splendid opportunity for more variety of tone color. It was obvious in this group and as the program progressed that Miss Minunzie's lower notes had not the resonance of her higher voice and consequently were lost in the large church.

The Lieder group with songs by Schubert and Schumann showed Miss Minunzie's dramatic ability to advantage and "Lovely Cradle of My Sorrows," by Schumann, was sung with such intensity as to be very moving.

The French songs by Poulenc deserve a special word of commendation. Seldom heard and difficult to sing, they were given a very artistic performance.

The folk songs, two in Italian and the rest in English, were charmingly sung.

This very young singer has a lovely voice and admirable control, and though her low notes need attention and her range extending we feel sure that these things will be added to her as she progresses towards her goal.

The assisting artist on this occasion was Dorothy Swetnam who, with her usual artistry, provided sympathetic

Mr. Ryan is president of the L. G. Baubien and Co. Ltd. of Montreal, who have financial branches in Brussels, Paris and elsewhere in Europe. Expect New Hospital To Open in December

The 60-bed hospital to serve the Crows' Nest Pass in a 75-mile area from one-half mile east of Burnis to the BC border is expected to be in operation early in December, according to Mayor Enoch William, of Blairmore.

"The new hospital will serve 8,200 people," Mayor Williams, chairman of the hospital board, estimated in an interview recently. "It will cost us, finished, about $320,000," he said.

"Separate wards have been built in the new structure to take care of the maternity and children's cases," the mayor advised. Included also is a fully equipped "fracture room," which will handle accident cases from the mines and lumbering industry.

A staff of 20 nurses will work in the new hospital, it was decided at a recent meeting of the hospital board. The mayor hinted that girls from the Pass who are qualified nurses will be given favorable consideration if they want to work in the new hospital.

Said he: "We have quite a number of girls from the Pass training outside to be nurses. We consider that our people here are just as good as those anywhere."

Two operating rooms, one for major and the other for minor cases, are being constructed in the new building. "This is the fourth attempt we have made to build the hospital," the mayor said, tracing the start of the project. "The Miners Union have realized the need for hospitalization for many years."

Residents here were given a chance to vote in a plebiscite on the hospital question on December 15, 1945. Permission was granted to issue bonds worth $275,000, the sum of $24,700 having been collected when the bonds were issued.

"We had a lot of difficulty in deciding on a location," the mayor recalled.

Since the first sod was broken for the new hospital, situated on an imposing site between the towns of Coleman and Blairmore, in May of 1947, "work has been held up by shortages of materials," the mayor said.

"We are endeavoring to make it as fireproof as possible. The building's whole structure is of reinforced concrete," he announced.

Five members, including the mayor, are on the hospital board, of which each of the municipalities has one representative and local improvement district number 71, the territory outside Blairmore, Coleman and Frank has two.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

Would you like to experience one of the happiest, most interesting days in your life—tomorrow?

You will if you make it a "Double Day"—a day during which you try to practice certain principles with twice your normal effort.

For instance, with people—everyone you meet during the day—make a double effort to be kind and helpful. Try to be twice as interested in each one, twice as appreciative of their good qualities.

On the job too, there are many things you can profitably try to double: your concentration; your self-confidence; your efficiency; your ability to visualize improvements that can be made in your field of work.

Even spare time recreation will bring more fun and relaxation if entered into with doubled enthusiasm.

The end of such a day will be so enjoyable that you will want to continue such practice in the future.

Here's another secret of happier living: Provide a background of peace of mind for yourself and your loved ones through life insurance. It offers dependable protection against emergencies and provides income for retirement.

Security For The Farmer

DURING THE PAST FEW YEARS Canada has enjoyed a period of unprecedented prosperity. Industrial expansion has taken place on a very large scale and incomes have risen rapidly in that field. It is interesting to know that agriculture has likewise prospered during this period and that farm income has also risen, enabling many farmers to substantially improve their financial positions. It has been an accepted fact, in the past that as a whole farmers did not receive a large share of the national income, and it is gratifying to learn that this is no longer the case. That increased farm income is being wisely used is demonstrated by figures which have been made public by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, showing the reductions which have been made in farm debts in the past few years.

Debt Reduced On Prairies

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported that in 1946 the number of farms on which there were mortgages or debts on lands or buildings was reduced by 42 per cent. Mortgage debts on buildings and lands in the prairie provinces in 1941 amounted to $173,102,500. In 1946 this figure had dropped to $80,444,000 which was 53.5 per cent. below the total for 1941. The report showed that the greatest drop had taken place in Saskatchewan. In the same period, agreements for debts in the prairie provinces dropped from $123,393,800 to $40,043,500 or by 34.9 per cent. In this case, the reduction in Alberta was greater than in either Saskatchewan or Manitoba.

Living Costs Have Risen

While debts on lands and buildings have been substantially reduced, the farmer like all other citizens has had to contend with rising operating and living costs. In April of this year the index covering the farmer's operating and living costs had risen to the record level of 183.2 with costs in the years 1935 to 1939 as a basis of 100. Farm machinery was one of the first articles from which price controls were lifted, and there have been rises also in taxes, wages for farm help, clothing and many other things. Farm income in the first quarter of 1946 was $64,562,000 more than in the same period in 1947 and $105,617,000 more than in the first three months of 1946. While they have had to meet rising costs, it is gratifying to know that farmers have taken advantage of the present period of prosperity to substantially decrease their debts and thus increase their present and future security.

STUFFED POTATOES

Select medium-sized, smooth-skinned oval potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) until tender, about 50 minutes, being careful not to over-brown the skin. Cut the potatoes in two, lengthwise, remove the potato pulp, being careful to leave shells unbroken. Mash the hot potato, add either milk or cream as for mashed potato. Season as follows: To each cup of potato add 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice and 1 teaspoon butter. TWO CHILDREN AND A PONY

These two lovely-looking children are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Livingston, Cloverdale, B.C. They are shown on their Shetland pony "Brownie". The two little ones are learning to dance and prefer the Highland Fling for which 7-year-old Barbara has won a cup. They live on a 80-acre farm about 24 miles from Vancouver. Their chief harvest is oats and hay of which there was an abundance this year.

URGE AFTER HARVEST WEED CONTROL

"Get a head start on next year's weeds," Herbert A. Pass, Director of Research Green Cross Insecticides, advised in a statement to grain farmers. "Spray stubble grain with 2-4-D. It's your chance to give the stubborn perennials a strong dose of 2-4-D with perfect safety. In early summer sprayings, said Mr. Pass, there is a safe limit to the amount of 2-4-D which may be applied. As a result, hard-to-kill weeds like thistle and bindweed cannot be treated with as high a dosage as after harvest. There is an additional advantage in that stubble spraying this fall will make next year's perennials easier to treat."

And, after all, it is style alone by which posterity will judge of a great work, for an author can have nothing truly his own but his style.—Isaac D'Israeli.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Little Willie tugged at his mother's apron strings. "Ma, didn't I hear you tell Aunt Mary I have your eyes and daddy's nose?" "Yes, you did," said his mother indulgently. "Well, look at me now Ma," said Willie. "I've got Grandpa's teeth."

CERTAINLY THIS STORY MIGHT SOUND FISHY

The Fort William Times-Journal tells this one: A New York couple were fishing near Peterborough, Ont., on their 25th wedding anniversary. After fishing for 25 minutes, they hooked a muskie, fought him for exactly 25 minutes and reeled him in. When weighed, the fish was exactly 25 pounds. If anyone thinks the story is fishy, he certainly is entitled to his opinion.

Sees Canada As World Leader In Uranium Ore

OTTAWA.—Canadian scientists generally agree Canada is gradually overtaking the Belgian Congo as the world's greatest producer of uranium ore.

One of these scientists is 47-year-old Arvid Thunness, who is in a unique position to know. As chief of the radio-activity division of the government's mine bureau, he commutes between Ottawa and Eldorado—the government's vast uranium, enter prize in the Northwest Territories.

Returning from his fifth trip to Great Bear Lake, the uranium expert said he is fully satisfied Canada is "on the right road to a bright atomic future."

Thunness agrees with atomic energy control board scientists in Ottawa it is quite possible that Canada already has exceeded the Congo's known uranium production. He is certain too, that Canada is ahead of Russia in production of uranium ore.

Canadian Pay Rolls Set Record

OTTAWA.—The pay envelope of Canada's industrial worker is at its fattest in seven years—perhaps an all-time record size.

Average weekly earnings of workers in eight leading industries were $40.49 on July 1, and the bureau of statistics reported that is a peak for the seven years in which the bureau has been recording payrolls.

The new figure represents an increase from $40.02 at June 1 and from $39.15 a year previously.

The payroll average was computed from "advance" tabulation of figures in eight leading industries—manufacturing, logging, communications, transportation, construction, trade, mining and services such as hotels and laundries.

In manufacturing, the weekly average payroll at July 1 was $41.20, compared with $40.63 at June 1 and $36.47 a year previously.

John Riva and his brother Harry of Bellevue, along with Rod McLeod, were recent motor visitors to Creston. Everywhere where a stop was made for refreshment the party beefy (par-

Milk Prices in Pass Area Are Raised

Starting on Friday, October 1, milk prices in the Crows' Nest Pass area will be boosted two cents per quart. This is gained in advertisements in Pass papers by the Pass Dairy, sole distributors in this area.

It is stated that between Sept. 1 and Sept. 15, 25.6 per cent of all milk received by the dairy was imported from Lethbridge and Calgary and more would have been imported if it had been available.

Cost of 100 pounds of milk laid down at the Hillcrest CPR station, which is the closest to the dairy, was $5.64 as compared to $4.49 paid to Pass producers. This disparity in prices has brought a request from Pass producers for more revenue for their products.

The two-cent boost will be used to pay the Pass producers an increase of 38 cents per 100 pounds, the balance to be used to pay for the imported milk. Increased wages to employees and help take care of increased costs generally.

The following rates are in effect on Oct. 1: Quarts, retail 21 cents; quarts, wholesale, 19 cents; gallons, wholesale, 73 cents; pints, 12 cents.

Probably the largest factor in the low volume of Pass produced milk is due to the Oliver Dairy at Blaimore having reduced its daily shipment from 2,000 pounds to 300 pounds. This dairy has bred its cattle to fatten in November and December and at the present time 60 head are dry. These same 60 head are also for sale and should they be sold outside the district they will be forever lost to Pass milk production.

The situation is further aggravated by American buyers coming into the district and offering to buy milk cattle. Two or three buyers from Washington were in here recently, but as far as can be learned failed to offer the price asked by the milkmen. One American buyer offered to buy the entire herd of one Pass producer.

I WANT TO KNOW

Am I too old to buy life insurance?

The middle-aged man who asked this question feared that at his age the cost of life insurance would be prohibitive... but even were he much older, Mutual life insurance would still prove good business.

Unfortunately many people realize the importance of life insurance only when through age or other disability they are no longer able to secure it. A life insurance programme should be started as early in life as possible.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS...

No man can enjoy a true life and true liberty, or pursue a genuine happiness, without first conceding the right of his fellow man to do the same. The extent of our enjoyment of these rights depends entirely on our unselfish willingness to keep our own pursuit of happiness from interfering with that of others. The moment the use of our own liberty restricts that of another... we are abusing the ideals our forefathers fought to maintain.

The House of Seagram believes that moderation is the key to the successful pursuit of happiness... moderation in our thinking, in our actions, and in our personal habits... moderation in all things.

Men who think of tomorrow practice moderation today!

Tank for Cooling Milk

PROPER means of cooling milk are essential to the production of a first class product. It is desirable that milk be cooled quickly for best results, then kept cool until shipment. The health inspection services of most cities ask for the storage of 2 1/2 to 3 tons of ice per cow where ordinary methods of milk cooling are used. It should be of particular interest to dairy farmers, therefore, that with a properly insulated cooling tank a little more than a ton of ice is sufficient to cool 33 lbs. of milk per day during the six warm months of the year, all the cooling to be done with the ice. This takes care of 6,000 lbs. of milk during the six months mentioned, which is considerably more than the average dairy cow will give during this period of time.

It would seem logical to ask, therefore, why put up 2 1/2 tons of ice per cow when 1 1/2 tons will do? In an ordinary concrete tank about half of the ice put into it is wasted cooling the tank and ice around the tank. If a tank is properly insulated, however, this loss is reduced to a comparatively small amount.

Freshly drawn milk has a temperature of about 65 degrees Fahrenheit and for best results "it" should be cooled to 50 degrees, or less, within two hours after milking. To extract the heat from a given quantity of warm milk, it is required a definite amount of refrigeration, or stored cold, to absorb the heat. This refrigeration is supplied either by melting ice or by a refrigeration machine, usually driven by electricity. Recent studies of this problem have shown that to cool 100 lbs. of milk to a temperature of 48 degrees in two hours takes 12 kilowatt hours of electricity or 40 lbs. of ice. Insulated tanks, of course, are essential not only for economical cooling but also to secure the degree of cooling necessary for a first-class product.

The size of the tank needed will depend on the number of 8-gallon cans to be cooled at one time, plus the necessary cooling water and ice. To obtain the necessary capacity of refrigeration storage in the form of ice water there should be three times as much water in the tank as there is milk in the cans.

The tank should not be deeper than necessary to permit the cooling to close over the tops of standard cans, as excessive depths only add to the labor of lifting the cans out, and the depth of water need not be greater than sufficient to reach the necks of the cans. The accompanying table gives the dimensions of several convenient sizes of tanks for different sizes of dairy units. It should be noted that a standard inside width of 3 ft. and a depth of 27 ins. is used in all sizes, the variation being in the length only.

The important thing in the construction of an insulated tank of this kind is, of course, the insulating material. A great deal of research work has gone into the development of the best forms of prepared insulation for this kind of milk-cooling tank. Not less than 3 inches of the material is available, and it should be made in slabs, in compressed sheeting such as is used in the construction of refrigerators, or of any of the wood pulp insulating boards on the market. Several firms interested in the insulating material trade are preparing hermetically sealed sheets or cakes of the material in slabs, in shape and sizes which fit the standard tanks with a minimum of cutting. It should be remembered that it is extremely important that these insulating packages remain permanently dry, because any insulating material loses considerable of its insulating value when it becomes impregnated with moisture.

In building one of these insulated tanks the best procedure is to lay the floor of the tank first, placing in position the drain pipe together with the fittings for the overflow pipe. When this is completed the insulating material is put in position both on the floor and in the side walls, then outside and inside forms for the walls of the tank are put in place and both walls poured at the same time.

As the concrete walls approach completion, anchors, bolts for the door of the tank and for the angle iron corner protectors for the front of the tank are placed in the concrete while it is still soft. The cover for the tank is made of a wooden frame filled with insulating material and the under side of it at least should be covered with galvanized iron to keep the insulating material dry.

Estimated building construction in Edmonton was boosted to a record $19,000,000 for 1948 by applications for building permits for two major schemes totalling more than $450,000.

A program for reorganizing defense forces of Australia, including a "joint war production staff," was announced in the speech from the throne opening the federal parliament.

Exports of Canadian wheat during the crop years ended July 31 totalled 136,897,000 bushels, down 23,438,000 bushels from the 160,335,000 shipped in the preceding year, Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Canada's national parks attracted a record number of visitors in the four months ended July 31, the resource department announced. The attendance was 694,346, a six per cent. increase over the previous all-time high of 653,881 in the same period last year.

Australia announced a reduction of 20 per cent. in gasoline ration for private use and 10 per cent. for other users, effective Oct. 1, to limit dollar purchases. Present gasoline rationing, based on the horsepower of the vehicle, ranges from six to 13 gallons a month.

Yellowknife Mine Pouring 240 Tons A Day

EDMONTON.—The pouring of the first gold brick from the Giant Yellowknife Mine at Yellowknife brought to fruition 13 years of staking, financing and development that has run into millions of dollars.

Dr. Charles Cammell, former Canadian deputy minister of mines and resources, officiated at the pouring ceremony before some 60 federal and Alberta officials, mining, oil and aviation executives, service representatives and Edmonton and Yellowknife businessmen.

A. Ken Muir, Giant general manager, presented the gold brick to Mines and Resources Minister MacKinnon, who in turn presented it to W. C. Ronson, Ottawa, master of the mint.

At present, Giant Yellowknife is milling 240 tons a day. It is pouring bricks currently by means of milling, crushing and mercury amalgamation. Shauri River power is coming in at the end of September. A roasting plant will begin operating in November.

The whole plant will be operating by Christmas and operating rate stepped up to 300 tons a day by early 1949. Later it will go up to 500 tons.

The mill is designed for eventual expansion of 1,000 tons daily capacity.

LITTLE REGGIE

WON INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION — Otto Leader, a polled Hereford bull bred by Sheriff Malcolm M. McGregor, of Brandon, and sold last year to Carlos L. Perera Israel, of Buenos Aires, placed first in its class and won a reserve championship at great Palermo cattle show in the Argentine recently. The bull was sired by Otta A. (167297) and the dam was Kimitit Initiate (153189).

Manitoba Bull Won High Honors At Argentine Show

BRANDON, Man.—Facing some of the largest competition the livestock world can produce, Otto Leader, a polled Hereford bull bred by Sheriff Malcolm M. McGregor, of Brandon, placed first in its class and won a reserve championship at the Great Palermo cattle show in the Argentine.

The bull was bred at the Sheriff's farm in Brandon and sold at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto last year for $5,000 to Perera Israel, of Buenos Aires, one of the largest breeders of Hereford cattle in the Argentine. It was flown to the South American ranch last January.

At the Palermo show as many as 150 bulls are shown in one class and they represent the finest breeding stock in the world, making the local win an outstanding achievement for the Manitoba pure-bred cattle industry.

Adding to the achievement was the fact that the bull was the first polled Hereford to be taken into the Argentine and it won in competition with horned entries.

Sheriff McGregor, one of the most enthusiastic promoters of the polled Hereford breed in Manitoba, was informed of the win by cable. "I have always maintained that the breeding quality and individuality of the Hereford cattle right here in Manitoba is as good as you'll find anywhere in the world," he stated.

The Israel family was the first to import Hereford cattle into the Argentine in 1867 and have built up a tremendous herd in the intervening years. During his visit to the Royal Show last year, Perera Israel also bought a half sister of Otto Leader, and it was flown to the Argentine in the same plane.

Sheriff McGregor previously exported a polled Hereford bull to Australia and has received very favorable reports of its progress as well.

BIG RYE, FLAX CROPS

The combined output of fall and spring rye for Canada from the 1948 crop is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at mid-August to be 26.3 million bushels, nearly double that of 1947. The Canadian rye crop is currently estimated to be 32.4 million bushels.

A near-record 1948 Canadian flaxseed crop of 50 million bushels from 1.9 million seeded acres is also forecast. Last year the output was 12.2 million bushels, while the largest flaxseed crop previously harvested in Canada was one of 28.1 million bushels in 1912.

ESTABLISHED BORDER

The Gadsden Purchase between the United States and Mexico was consummated at Old Mesilla, near Las Cruces, New Mexico, in 1854. It gave the United States vast areas of land for $12,000,000 and established the international border from El Paso to California.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS A Little Window

By JANE DALE

From a little window at the bend of the stair,
I see a part of the world out there;
Some twinkling stars and a neighbor's light,
Some shining water when the moon is bright.

Some tall dark trees against the sky,
And miles of fields with harvest high.
I gaze out there when I go to bed,
It gives me a vision and fills my head
With broader views than my petty cares,
And gives me hope as I climb the stairs.

It shows me life will never be
Just four small walls in I can see
The broader way; the higher light
With one step closer every night.

PRISCILLA'S POP—Apparently, That's Different

By Al Vorneg

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THIS IS LOVE

By ANNA E. WILSON

SWALLOW, Andy said, reminding him of some swallows, the way they built their nests of mud and straw, high up in the eaves, trusting that the rain wouldn't wash them away or the wind blow through the rafters and send their pretty nestlings tumbling down to the barnyard floor among the ruins of the insecure home their careless parents had provided.

And yet, Andy reminded himself, watching the birds dip and circle and dart about, some swallows must have built well, else there wouldn't be no swallows. He sighed, thinking of Chris and Cluny.

Cluny was tall, broad-shouldered, his face weathered and brown, and a kind, if slightly baffled smile. He had built his home on the cliff, storm proof and wind proof, and then he had married Chris and taken her to live in it. It was Chris who reminded Andy of the swallows—there was something homey about her, and trusting, too trusting. Chris skimmed through life just as the swallows skimmed the air, never quite touching it, never quite a solid, human part of it.

"But Chris," he could hear Cluny explain patiently, "I know you love to look pretty and that ruffled dress makes you look like a five-year-old in her first pinafore, but we can't afford it."

But Chris hadn't heard him. "Look at the way the skirt flares out Cluny."

"Chris, honey," Cluny's voice was roughened with love and worry. "I can't be the beauty I see on the outside for the love I love. Looking at you in your ruffled dress is something I share with everyone—like a pretty picture. But," Cluny frowned, trying to explain himself, "honesty and self-sacrifice and loyalty to one other person—that's something with in yourself and it doesn't depend on fine clothes or cost money. Oh, Chris, the boy's voice was husky. 'I love you in those old overalls you wear when we are weeding.'"

Chris was already turning up the hem of the ruffled dress and paying no attention to Cluny, so he went out to the clover patch and sat down to think it all over. He and Chris were just getting started. He couldn't afford new dresses and all the pretty things that had been a part of Chris' life when she worked for Mr. Macalroy and lived with her father. He couldn't make Chris see his way and he feared now that Chris' home might come tumbling down to one like the mud nests of the swallows.

But in spite of his discouragement, Cluny loved Chris so that his voice had a boyish tremor as he tried to explain things again the day she bought the ruffled curtains.

"They're pretty, Cluny," she displayed them proudly, "and Mr. Dunlop was in for the milk this morning and said it was all so nice that if you decided to move into town anytime, he'd rent the house. Then her voice was small with disappointment. "Cluny, don't you like it?"

"They're pretty, Chris, and no one could keep the house prettier and cleaner than you but the old curtains were good yet and I was saving the money from the calves to pay the taxes. I know, he said gently, noting her incomprehension, "that you can see the curtains, Chris, and the taxes are just something you hear about. But Chris, darling, if you could only get the real value of things straightened out in your head—the surface things that are just for today, like the curtains, and the real deep thing that is home—that's all our own—and a family. Things we've earned by our own planning and working. Oh, I know, Chris, that you couldn't do a mean or ungentle thing, but that makes it all the harder."

"I'll take something more than just talking, Cluny," Jim, Chris' brother, had been lounging on the veranda, "Chris just doesn't understand that anything terrible could happen to her. Chris isn't a great spender but she can't realize that you love her for what she is and not just for looking pretty."

Cluny's young face was tense and lined with worry. "If we lose the money for the fall wheat we won't be able to make our payments and may be forced to give up the farm and Chris' love it."

"I can't help out with the payments or with the taxes, Cluny, and if I could it wouldn't matter for there would be something else tomorrow. It'll have to be something that cut deep into life that will reach Chris and make her see things your way."

And then Chris bought the porch swing and Cluny stung out of the house crying out at last in bitterness and frustration. "I love you, Chris, but you'll ruin us with your senseless extravagance."

Cluny had known for a long time that the old hayloft wasn't safe but he loaded it recklessly until it jammed and then climbed up to examine the machinery. Jim found him on the barnyard floor where he had been thrown by the sudden crashing of the load. He carried him in to Chris. Then raced his old car into town for the doctor.

The doctor was blunt. "A compound fracture of the hip. He'll have to spend a year in the hospital. I'm sorry, Jim, but I can see no other way in which he can be cured without crippling. It'll cost a lot. Can Cluny afford it?"

"Cluny will go to the hospital," Chris cried wildly, seeing Cluny's fine strong body crippled and bent. "Won't he, Jim?"

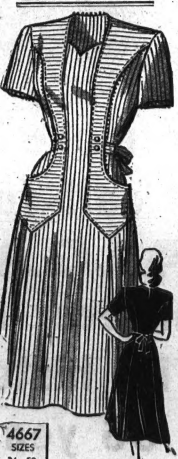

Jim explained gently about the money for the calves that had gone into curtains, the money for the wheat that had bought the porch swing and other luxuries. "And, he finished, 'Cluny doesn't own the car so he can't mortgage it. He's still making payments.'"

Chris didn't cry for all she looked so soft. There was a vein of iron in her. She went out quietly and looked at the pretty dresses in her cupboard, at the fine curtains on the windows and at the new porch swing, and then she went in to Cluny and sat beside him, holding fast to his hand.

"Cluny," she told Dr. Meyers steadily, "I'm going to the hospital for a year. He's going to have massage and X-rays and everything else he needs. Mr. Dunlop likes this house and he'll pay a good rent for it. I can get my old job back with Mr. Macalroy. It pays well. The rent and what I earn will keep Cluny in the hospital," suddenly she clung close to Cluny. "Cluny," she cried brokenly, "I've been like one of those swallows, building my nest here and when the wind blew, it came tumbling down on me; but the swallows don't give up just because they're tired and they build again. She slipped to her knees, sobbing wildly, her arms tight about Cluny, his tight about her. "Cluny, Cluny, marriage isn't just skinning life. It's welded in pain and terror and misery. Oh, Cluny, Cluny—this is love!"

Memorial Gates Dedicated At Consort

An event of lasting importance to people of Consort, Alton, and district was the recent opening and dedication of the Memorial Gateway at Lake Road Cemetery, at which a large crowd from the surrounding country attended. The picture above gives one idea of the size and shape of the gateway, but it does not do justice to its fine workmanship and artistic beauty. The plaque, can be seen—on the right hand pillar and one on the left. The plaque on the right side reads: "Erected to the memory of the men of Consort and district who gave their lives for freedom, 1898-1945."

The Dedication
"We are met before a beautiful memorial, built of stone on a solid foundation, lasting we pray, as the memory of the names they bear. We are come to dedicate this memorial to the memory of those gallant sons of Consort who gave their lives that we might live. We, therefore, dedicate this Gateway to the Glory of God in memory of those who died on the Field of Honour, and in honour of those who served and came back to us. May the memory of their magnificent services be kept green and may the cause of freedom in which they fought be upheld in our hearts and minds and in those of succeeding generations."

In days to come let this Gateway be both a memorial and a symbol; a symbol of the days of Freedom which shall arise out of the sacrificial efforts of those whose giving of themselves we commemorate today, Of those who made the supreme sacrifice we say:
"They are not dead, they shall not die while still Affection lives and memory fulfills its tasks of gratitude.
Not theirs alone
The sculptured monument, the graven stone
The commonwealth of freedom that shall rise
Worldwide shall tell their noble sacrifice."

Canadians Again Warned To Go Easy On Coal, Fuel Oil

OTTAWA.—A government authority said Trade Minister Howe shortly will issue an official warning that Canadians must go easy on coal and fuel oil supplies this Winter.

The spokesman said that although Canada's fuel picture looked bright this year than a year ago, storage difficulties still persisted. The Dominion, he said, still was unable to transport sufficient fuel oil and coal from United States points in the short navigation season to cover the entire Winter season.

Steeper prices also appeared to be in store for Canadian consumers, the spokesman said. Anthracite coal likely will climb $1.50 to $1.75 a ton.

He would not give an estimate of what the fuel-oil increase might be. "That is up to the industry," he said. "There is a marked improvement in the oil situation, both for heating purposes and for gasoline, but you must remember that the industry is paying out more money for wages this year and for higher production costs."

However, the fuel authority believed that fuel oil increase will be moderate. The official gave these reasons for the profitable increase in the price of coal:

1. Two freight-rate increases announced by the railways this year, one granted by the Board of Transportation Commissioners last spring and other announced by the railways recently to cover competitive areas only.

2. Coal miners' demands for higher wages.

3. Union trouble earlier this year in the Alberta mining fields.

But there was a bright side to the fuel picture. The official said that production increases in the Maritime provinces will benefit by greater delivery to the central provinces. A slight increase also is noted in the Alberta area.

These increases, said the official, coupled with uninterrupted deliveries from the Pennsylvania fields will make for warmer homes in Canada this Winter.

Police Refuse Actor's Request

SASKATOON.—When Cameron Mitchell, Hollywood actor, was fined $13.30 here for speeding, he asked police to send the "bill" to the American Automobile Association.

Officers said Mitchell explained: "We don't bother with such trivial things. Hollywood" Police declined to accede to his suggestion, and said they were not conducting a collection agency.

SAYS WOMEN BETTER AT JUDGING HORSES

TORONTO.—Take it from pretty Joan Pickard of Winnipeg, women are better than men at judging horses.

"Since more girls than boys take riding lessons, it seems logical they should be more competent to judge the classes in which junior riders compete," said Miss Pickard, here to represent Manitoba in a junior horse judging competition.

South Saskatchewan Irrigation Project Proving Successful

(By Ken Liddell, in Regina Leader-Post)
SWIFT CURRENT.—The Swift Current-Herbert Irrigation project is trying out its first suit of long pants. Farmers who live along the 40-mile ditch are beginning to find that as the growing pains wear off they have quite a husky baby on their doorstep.

Apert from irrigation on hay flats at Rush Lake, last year saw first use of water on private farms at Herbert, extreme eastern end of the project, and this year there was gratifying increase in acreage under the ditch and also in interest among farmers.

This situation was gratifying because while governments can put the scheme in operation they can't make people use it. To use an expression, it is difficult to teach old dogs new tricks, but oldtimers along the line are at least willing to sit up and take notice.

As Neil Jahneke, Herbert farmer and rancher since 1904 who was this year interested in 45 irrigated acres of flax, said "we put the water on a little too late this year, but when we did it on, boy, she sure came up. There are a few ragged edges to the whole thing, but it is chiefly a matter of getting the older farmers interested."

And the interest is growing at Herbert where last year's 400 irrigated acres of barley, oats, flax, this year jumped to 600 acres.

But a great deal of promotion that is now going on will probably have a payoff next year. Interest in small irrigated-plots is particularly evident around Waldock and Rush Lake. The Rural Municipality of Excelsior at Rush Lake this year offered 15 lots of nine to 15 acres, most irrigable, for $200 each and D. Campbell, secretary-treasurer, reported that seven lots had been sold with inquiries about two others.

Building Restrictions
Mr. Campbell reported the council was pleased with this reception because it had been anticipated that the building restrictions would be a drawback to quick sales.

The lots are selling for $200 each, balance in 10 years when title will be given, but the purchaser must agree to erect a $2,000 dwelling in five years and a windbreak of 300 trees.

Mr. Campbell said the restrictions were a bit stiff but as the surveyed area would eventually become a virtual village adjacent to Rush Lake they were considered necessary to prevent speculation.

In addition, at Rush Lake, about 1,500 acres has been surveyed into irrigable parcels of 40 acres each. These will be offered to dry-land farmers for growing feed. Preference will be given to veterans, then to farmers within the Rural Municipality of Excelsior, then to farmers outside the municipality.

Interest In Feed
Mr. Campbell said that interest in his municipality centred chiefly around larger irrigated plots for feed crops. As it grows, he said, the whole scheme will mean that the economic life of the municipality will be more assured as in dry years farmers will be "on their own" so far as stock is concerned.

At Waldock, however, between Rush Lake and Swift Current and about 10 miles east of the latter point, the interest takes another trend. Probably because Waldock is closer to a larger centre, the interest is in both field crops and garden produce.

In what was done with garden produce this year is a pretty fair indication of what can be accomplished on a larger scale in the future.

CANADIAN BACON POPULAR IN U.K.

Canadian bacon is well liked in the United Kingdom since the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

L. Logan Layton, of the Department who is stationed in London to report on the quality of Canadian meat arriving in the United Kingdom, recently paid a visit to Manchester. This city is the distributing centre of foodstuffs for that densely populated part of England renowned for the world over for its cotton spinning and weaving industries, and for its engineering, machinery and chemical factories.

Mr. Logan talked with butchers and meat dealers, wholesalers and retailers, and as a result of his enquiries reports that Canadian bacon is most popular. He states that representatives of the bacon trade drew his attention to the fact that retailers are more enthusiastic over Canadian bacon than ever before.
